五、閱讀測驗

1. In 1901, Karl Landsteiner, an Austrian scientist, discovered that there are four different blood types. Later, the theory (理論) of blood types and personalities became popular in Asia, especially in Japan. But there are other things your blood type says about you.

Peter D'Adamo, a Canadian doctor, believes that people with different blood types should eat different diets. He thinks since blood plays an important role in carrying nutrients (營養物) in our body, different blood types will react differently to certain food. For example, people with blood type A have a weaker immune system (免疫系統) and low stomach acid, so they should be careful with animal protein and eat more fruits and vegetables. People with blood type B are more likely to have blood sugar problems, and they should avoid food such as corn, tomatoes, peanuts, and chicken because these foods will make them feel tired or make their immune system weak. A high-protein diet is good for people with blood type O. People with blood type AB have slow digestion (消化), so they should avoid coffee, wine, and smoked meat and eat frequent small meals that include tofu and seafood. Following the diets for each blood type above is said to help prevent certain diseases, have stronger immune systems, and stay healthy.

As you can see, your blood type not only tell you what your personality is, but it also tells you what health problems you are more likely to have and what kind of diet you should have in order to prevent those health problems. So, do you have a clearer idea of what to eat now?
